Starter template — review before use.

This agreement sets out the work one person or business (the contractor) will do for another (the client), what it costs and when it starts.

1. The work

The contractor will carry out the work described above with reasonable skill and care, and will tell the client promptly if anything is going to be late or cost more than agreed. Anything outside that description is extra work, and is only chargeable if the client agrees to it in writing first.

2. Fee and invoices

The client pays the fee above. The contractor invoices for it, and the client pays each invoice within 14 days of receiving it. Agreed expenses are invoiced at cost with receipts attached.

3. An independent contractor

The contractor is self-employed, not an employee of the client. The contractor decides how and when the work is done, uses their own equipment unless the parties agree otherwise, and is responsible for their own taxes and insurance.

4. Who owns the work

Once the contractor has been paid in full, everything created specifically for the client under this agreement belongs to the client. Tools, libraries and know-how the contractor brought with them stay the contractor's, and the client may use them as part of the delivered work.

5. Confidentiality

Each party keeps the other's private business information to itself, uses it only for this work, and carries on doing so after the work ends.

6. Ending the agreement

Either party may end this agreement by giving the other 14 days written notice. The client pays for work done up to that point, and the contractor hands over whatever has been completed and paid for.

Both parties agree to the terms above.
